CLOSING EXERCISES

At the Episcopal Seminary—Highly Interesting Examination—Thoroughness of the instruction Given—Finances of the Institution—
Expenses of Attendance—Improvements—Vacation—Etc. Etc.

At 1:30 a class in United States history was called and conducted by the principal, Miss Kate A. Sill.

Slips containing questions were drawn by the young ladies, and, as a number was called, the young lady having that number rose in her place and recited at length her answer. The young misses answered with surprising correctness, for the most part, as many of the exactions were rather beyond the comprehension of the pupils, e. g.:

"What were the causes of the Civil War?" "What were the causes of the Mexican War?" "What were the causes of the War of Independence?"

"What are the branches of the United States Government, and the duties of each?" etc. Miss Sill's method of examination is the same as that of the leading colleges.

Miss Grace Dowdell and Miss Mary

Estill gave an excellent rendition of a difficult vocal duet.

Miss Elva Elder then recited an amusing selection from Carlton. This was followed by class readings from Howe's Shakespearean reader, conducted by Miss Sill. Portion of

"Hamlet and the Merchant of Venice" were read. One young lady, Miss Dowdell, read with excellent expression. Next came a large class in spelling, also under the charge of Miss

Sill. The scholars did well in this, illustrating, as in other branches of study, the thoroughness which characterizes the instruction imparted by all the teachers of this school.

"Popular Fallacies," by Miss Hattie Lewis, was a neatly written essay, which contained a number of happy illustrations.

These exercises were brought to a close by a touching and appropriate address by Bishop Whitaker, and the closing Episcopal service.

THE RECEPTION.

The reception last evening, as were the exercises of the day, was attended by a large number of visitors from different parts of the State. The reception was informal, and therefore all the more pleasant. Some very excellent instrumental music was furnished by Miss Qualiffe and Miss Estill. A charade was given by five young Misses, which was both entertaining and amusing. The gymnasium was then cleared and the light fantastic gracefully tripped for half to three-quarters of an hour. Then came the

GOOD BYE

of classmates and teachers. Four of the latter, Miss Sill, Miss Goodwin,

STATE FAIR.

The race programme for the Nevada State fair of 1878 should have been prepared before this time. The reason it has not been settled is found in the fact that Reno men have neglected their plain duty in the matter. The jockey club, which has each year arranged the purses and become responsible for their payment, met in Virginia city May 25th, pursuant to adjournment. There was but one man present from Reno, and the club adjourned without action. This was eminently the correct thing to do. It has been remarked that, while Reno derives every benefit from this fair, her citizens are loudest in their complaints and the most unreasonable in their demands. The jockey club are anxious to serve the society and satisfy the people, but they want Reno men to come forward and give their opinions on how matters should go. If they reserve the privilege of growing, they should at least show some interest in the making of programmes.

Now, every man who reads this will know that he owes a duty to the State Agricultural society; he knows that if Washoe county men fail in their duty, the society ought to die. There is no escape from this conclusion. Although the society is on the high road to success, has well appointed and valuable grounds, ample buildings, and a better reputation than any other society on the coast, all these will not supply a lack of industry and energy upon our part. The men of Storey county who put their money in the concern are out of pocket while we make money through the fair, and yet the singular fact exists that disinterested parties take the most interest. This will not continue. We ought to do more than our exact duty in all directions. There should be twenty more life memberships in this county, and there should be a marked disposition shown to aid the unselfish efforts of the Trustees and jockey club. It is as easy to make a success of this society as to allow its failure. Energy and good will on our part will ensure success. A lack of either will precipitate failure. The welfare of the society is in our own hands.

POSTMASTER KEY'S LETTER.

The Potter resolution is in a fair way towards signal failure. Alexander H. Stephens, who, in spite of age and declining strength, holds his place as a leader of opinion in the Democratic ranks, has censured without stint. Democrats throughout the land are ashamed of the shallow plot, and see great danger where they expected large gains. Postmaster Key, whose loyalty has been questioned by Republicans openly, now appears in the role of a patriot. He has written an open letter to the people of the South, in which he points out the desperate intent of the Potter move, and warns his native section of the infamy which must rest upon it if Potter gets what he expects—a solid South.

He points to the fact that these frauds are to be used in forming a Democratic House, after which it is the purpose to repudiate Hayes and recognize Tilden. This means Mexicanization and civil war, and Mr. Key points to the fact that without a solid South these things are impossible. The people of the South should repudiate such movements, and show that they value the Republic, and will not consent to occasion another civil war. This must be done perhaps outside of the Democratic party, but it must be done if the South must prevent another contest. In conclusion, Mr. Key says: "No man need hope that the schemes of the men who have encouraged this movement to unsettle President Hayes can be carried out without a bloody civil war."

The letter is timely and able. If a solid South brings on another civil war, a solid South will live to regret it. The peril of such an event is imminent, and if the South war the most conservative Republicans should draw forth the bloody shirt and clothe them with it. As to campaign material, however the Democrats have none left.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Silver State and Eureka Sentinel are talking about flopping, and the Silver State laying one finger along its nose asks "Do you remember how you fought Williams for Senator when he was poor?"

The Salt Lake Tribune publishes an advertisement of a beef-stake improver. The instrument consists of forty-eight needles set in block; by which the fibers of a beef-stake can be subdued, in a second, so that an old bull will taste like veal. It costs one dollar.

Concerning the resignation of Natchez, Emperor of all the Piutes we learn that it was brought about for political purposes. Natchez disclaims any intent to run against Bradley but says that he would accept the second place if thrust upon him. He is "in the hands of his friends."

Somebody said that Bradley would get one-third of the Republican vote, and Mighels of the Appeal, assigns the following gaudy reason therefor:

A man who is constantly in his library devoted to his books and pursuing the seductive paths of literature, composing Odes to Anacreon, writing love stories and awakening to ecstasy the living lyre, such a man as that is in danger of being circumvented by the shrewd, the self-seeking and the worldly. It is because of the Governor's enthusiasm for letters that the fore-said "one-third" of the Republicans of the State are so in love with his excellency. Men will admire ripe scholarship!

Alexander H. Stephens's Reply to Clarkson Potter.

Alexander H. Stephens, in a communication to the Washington Post, yesterday morning, replies to the allusion to him contained in the letter of Clarkson N. Potter. In it he says:

If there was any gross mistake in this matter it was by Mr. Potter and not by me. So far as his statement is calculated to convey the idea or impression that I had given the Republicans a list of names who would follow me in any motion to prevent an investigation of election frauds, it is entirely without foundation. As a matter of truth, it has not a shadow of fact to rest upon. I had not conferred, directly or indirectly, with Mr. Hale, Mr. Garfield, or any other Republican, upon the subject. Nor had I at any time any conference with the President, as I have been alleged in some papers upon this subject, on the Monday that Potter's resolutions were offered. I had appeared in the House solely with a view of getting a suspension of the rules for the purpose of having passed the bill of the committee on coinage providing for the retirement of three and five cent silver pieces and having them recoined in other denominations. I looked upon the proceeding as fraught with mischief, and I was against a one-sided investigation and any investigation having in view the impeachment of the President. My object in asking to be heard for three minutes was to appeal to the House to vote down the previous question and allow the Republicans to offer any amendment they might see fit. Mr. Potter says he refused Hale's amendment because it was not germane. Why it was not germane I can not see—all frauds are of a kindred character.

My opinion is that this affair will prove in the end either a contemptible farce or a horrible tragedy. It will lead to the Mexicanization of our federal republic. The idea that Mr. Hayes can be peaceably unseated by Congress is a delusion and as gaudy as the whisperings of the great arch fiend in the shape of a toad, in the ear Eve, from which sprang all our woes.

At the conclusion of the morning hour, May 28th, the Senate resumed the consideration of the House bill to forbid the further retirement of United States legal tender notes. Bayard submitted an amendment to the clause providing for the reissue of said notes redeemed or received into the Treasury under any law, as follows: "Provided, that said notes when so reissued shall be receivable for all dues to the United States excepting duties on imports, and not to be otherwise a legal tender, and any reprint of said notes shall bear this superscription." He then addressed the Senate in favor of his amendment.

The country Postmasters are making money on the percentage allowed for the sale of stamps. The New York Postoffice cancels annually $4,500,000 worth of stamps and sells less than $2,500,000. Those from the country thus get a percentage on $2,000,000 sold in one city.

A Tyroese miller killed a girl whom he had ruined, in order to relieve his conscience and to secure her salvation. Pious soul! He is something like Tilden, Potter and Blair, who propose to ease their conscience and save a country they have seduced by smashing its head.—See.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

TAX-PAYERS' MEETING.

The Committee Appointed—Mr. Julien's Efficient Resolution—Sheriff Lamb's Defense.

The announcement that attorney's Webster and Cain would speak at the tax-payers meeting last night, failed to draw a very large audience. There were about forty-two or three men present when Mr. Julien, who is associated with Mr. Webster in defense of Mr. Lamb, arose and moved that Mr. Kinkad's substitute be adopted. Mr. Soderberg made the very appropriate objection that none of the prosecution were present, and he did not think there was need of so much haste to pass the resolution in their absence. This objection did not, however, seem to merit any consideration from Mr. Julien and he called for a vote. The Chairman decided the vote to be affirmative and disregarded the call for a division. This was objected to by Mr. Powning, and the vote carried by thirty-two to eight.

The committee appointed was as follows: J. H. Kinkad, H. A. Waldo, W. M. Boardman, John Bowman, and S. M. Jamison.

It is noted that not one grand juror nor even a pronounced believer in either report, found place upon the committee. Mr. Waldo is Mr. Julien's law partner and Mr. Jamison has always acted as a sort of proxy for Mr. Duck in committee work. It would have looked more like justice to have placed one grand juror among the five men.

Mr. Julien having disposed of this resolution, proceeded to introduce the following astute resolution:

WHEREAS, Certain of our county officers are openly charged with misconduct in office, in charging and collecting illegal fees; and knowing the fees thus obtained to be illegal, fail and refuse to return the money to the County Treasury, where it rightfully belongs; therefore,

Resolved, That in the opinion of the tax-payers of Washoe county the charges thus made are unfounded and that we will in the future, as in the past, continue to regard these officers as honest and trustworthy gentlemen until the contrary is clearly shown.

Owing to an oversight on Mr. Julien's part, the question was not put immediately, and by that time several grand jurymen having arrived, the discussion proceeded Mr. Webster defending the Sheriff.

Mr. Lamb had not returned any money to the treasury, which was charged against him. He denied the charges. In the matter of overcharge in mileage to Pyramid, he had actually performed the services charged for, and was entitled to the pay.

The next matter referred to was the charges for serving trial jurors living in the same direction, wherein an overcharge of $12 50 was alleged. Mr. Webster claimed that in going to Franktown, twenty-two miles, an overcharge of 150 miles, as in many instances and in the case referred to, the Sheriff had to make service right and left as he went along.

The speaker, was interrupted from time to time by men leaving the hall. Finally he said that he wished all to leave that desired to; it was very annoying to him. Several left at this time, and when quiet was restored he resumed.

In the matter of mileage the Sheriff had not overcharged the county one cent. The matter of bringing one prisoner down by rail from Virginia and the other by carriage was alright, because that was the only way in which Sheriff could obey orders of Court.

The Sheriff had been correct in serving writs and processes in California in cases referred to. In the Porter case, the Sheriff had gone to Quincy and spent $163 50 of his own money. He got back only $11 50. The Sheriff had spent his own money in order to serve the people faithfully. If he had gone with requisition he could have gotten back this money. The books showed other cases, and thus proved that Lamb was as good an officer as the county ever had. Mr. Webster then explained how Mr. Young got his dates mixed, and said that the accounts not being in proper shape was Tom Hymers' fault.

In regard to the charge for night service, the Sheriff had charged for 71 nights and it was right. You could not expect the Sheriff to work twenty-four hours to earn a day's wages. Reason was against it.

Beck—"You disagree with Judge Wright."

Webster—"Don't care anything about Judge Wright."

Beck—"No: he's small potatoes compared with you."

Webster—"I don't mean to say that; don't mean any disrespect to Judge Wright whatever. I don't know what he has said, but I claim that these subjects are open."

The next point objected to was charging thirty cents for serving each juror with a copy of the summons. The speaker claimed that the common law authorized this, and that it saved unnecessary expense. The custom had been inaugurated in the time of Sheriff Thurman, twelve years ago.

Mr. Webster then went on to denounce the manner in which the officers had been hounded. It was uncalled for. Mr. Beck had called them felons.

Beck—"I did not."

Webster—"Yes, you did, sir; don't go back on it."

Beck—"I did not!"

Webster—"You said, sir; that they had collected illegal fees and were guilty of malfeasance in office."

Beck—"Correct; I did."

Mr. Webster went on to say that when he loved a man he loved him and when he hated a man he hated him, and it roused him to the inmost depths of his soul to see such prosecution on foot.

Mr. Julien authorizes the Journal to say that he endorses the assertion made in the Sheriff's answer, as he was associated with Mr. Webster in the examination of the Sheriff's books, and both of these gentlemen deny every proposition advanced by the late grand jury.

Mr. Alexander here took the floor and proceeded to address the audience. He claimed that all that had been said in regard to the matter on the part of the defense amounted to nothing, and that there were as good men on the grand jury and as much entitled to belief as any officer or any officer's friends. He believed that Mr. Lamb and Mr. Comstock had never missed any opportunity to charge a fee. He did not believe any officer was a thief, but that they had been misled by precedent or something else to make illegal charges, such as ought never to have been allowed. He claimed that the Sheriff was entitled to actual mileage, but not for pay from the court-house for every juror served. Owing to the late hour, Mr. Alexander gave way to a motion to adjourn, and the meeting adjourned until Tuesday evening next.

Jottings.

—No Stock report to-day—Decoration Day.

—Our seminary article, continued from yesterday's issue, will be found on the first page.

—J Loewenthal inserts an advertisement which speaks for itself. This gentleman has opened a store in Barnett's building on Virginia street.

GOING EAST.—To-night Miss Kate A. Sill, Mrs. L. B. Graham and Miss Helen Goodwin, former teachers at the Episcopal Seminary, and Miss Gertie Hatch, daughter of Mr. A. J. Hatch, will take the overland train for the Eastern States. Miss Sill and Mrs. Graham, go to Pennsylvania; Miss Goodwin to Michigan, and Miss Hatch to New York. Last night Miss Mary Estill, late music instructor at the Seminary, took the train for Winemucca. These ladies will be missed in our Reno society, and in the excellent school which they leave. Miss Hatch will attend school near New York city.

DAILY THE TRUBADOURS.—On next Monday evening Salabury's Trubadours will present their inimitable play called "Patchwork." This troupe was here last year and gave one of the most amusing entertainments ever presented in this town. Mr. Salabury, who is a host within himself, is now with the company. Last year he was not with his troupe when they performed here. For full particulars see their ad.

BOUND OVER.—At the preliminary examination of Harry Dougan, in the Justice Court, the defendant was virtually bound over to appear before the next grand jury. Further action, however, will be taken on his case within a week, depending on the condition of Ed. Maples, who was shot six times by Dougan.

FOR PLAINTIFF.—In the case of Gillson & Barber vs. Price, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $500. The defendant intends appealing the case to the Supreme Court, and to this end a stay of judgment was granted for thirty days.

THE CHINESE MUST GO.—So says J. Loewenthal, on Virginia street, adjoining Barnett's block, as he is prepared to make pants to order and guarantee a fit, for the small sum of $6 and upwards and all other clothes at correspondingly low prices at the great I. X. L. Combination Store.

LOOK! LOOK! LOOK!—$5,000 REWARD.—To anyone who dares to undersell J. Loewenthal in first class goods, of gents' clothing, furnishing goods and all kinds of wearing apparel. Also gloves of the best quality sold cheap and made to order, at the great I. X. L. Combination Store, adjoining Barnett's block, Virginia street. 5-29-tf
